

Arrivederci, Roma!

This is the title of a song written in 1955 by Renato Rascel, with texts by Pietro Garinei and Sandro Giovannini. "Arrivederci" literally means "see you again"; indeed, the song is inspired by the beauty of the Eternal City and by the feelings that they induce on a tourist that is leaving.

We hope that you have enjoyed ETAPS'13, its scientific events, its social events and the overall organization. The numbers tell us that it was a success: around 650 participants, 609 papers submitted to the main conferences (among which only 148 were accepted, leading to 24.3% as acceptance rate), 22 workshops, 3 tutorials, 2 celebrations.

After POPL'13 (held in January) and ETAPS'13 (now in March), we will have the pleasure and the honour of hosting also CONCUR'14 in our beautiful city. See you soon, then!

A thematic journey into Rome: Shopping

Rome offers you several places where you can find great souvenirs of your trip in Italy. Via Condotti, Via Borgognona and Via Frattina are three parallel streets that start near Piazza di Spagna that reach Via del Corso; they are the best known highly expensive fashion in Rome. The atelier of Bulgari opened in Via Condotti in 1905; Armani, Hermès, Cartier, Ferragamo and Battistoni (the latter was a tailor favoured by the late Duke of Windsor) are located here. Via Borgognona hosts more fashion houses, including Fendi, Dolce & Gabbana, Laura Biagiotti or Gai Mattiolo. A walk through Via del Corso will also lead you to a charming gallery that takes its name after the famous Italian actor Alberto Sordi.

Via Cola di Rienzo, Via Ottaviano and Viale Giulio Cesare form one of the most important areas for shopping and cafés in the city: next to many family owned, unbranded shops, there are several boutiques, like Trussardi, Energy, Diesel Jeans, Miss Sixty, Armani and Benetton.

Another picturesque shopping street is Via Margutta, a small street near Piazza di Spagna, with art galleries, restaurants and antique dealers.

An association known as "I Cento Pittori di Via Margutta" (100 painters of Via Margutta) turns the street into an open-air art gallery during spring and autumn; several art galleries are present and open to visitors all the year.

Touristic gifts can be found in every touristic area of the city and are available at different budgets: you will surely find the one that fits your needs!

ETAPS'14 in Grenoble

The 17th edition of ETAPS will take place on April 5th to 13th, 2014, in Grenoble (France), with workshops on April 5th-6th and 12th-13th, and Main Conferences on April 7th-11th.

There will be 20 workshops and conferences affiliated to ETAPS 2014. The invited speakers will be: Christel Baier (Technical University of Dresden, Germany), Benoit Dupont de Dinechin (Kalray, France), Robert Harper (Carnegie Mellon University, US), Maurice Herlihy (Brown University, US), Petr Jančar (Technical Univ of Ostrava, Czech Republic), Orna Kupferman (Hebrew University Jerusalem, Israel), John Launchbury (Galois, US) and David Mazières (Stanford University, US).

Located in the south-eastern part of France, Grenoble is considered as the capital of the Alps. Grenoble is surrounded by nature and high mountains: down the Alps, Grenoble is the meeting point of two important rivers, called Drac and Isère. Grenoble has important historical and gastronomic heritages. Leisure activities in breathtaking nature are easily organizable and within short-distance. Grenoble is also a major scientific centre in Europe dedicated to high-tech technologies, e.g., nano, micro, bio and information technologies.

Pre and Post workshops will take place in Grenoble's Campus. The campus is easily and quickly reachable from downtown with public transportation. Main conferences will take place in the Grenoble World Trade Centre, located in the city centre.

Grenoble is easily reachable by several means:

- By plane: There are 3 airports:
 - International airport of Lyon Saint-Exupery (100 km). There is a bus connection between Lyon Saint-Exupery and the Grenoble train station.
 - Grenoble Saint-Geoirs airport (45km). A bus is waiting for every arriving plane.
 - The Geneva International airport (150 km). There is a bus connection to Grenoble.
- By train: There are TGV (fast train) connections with Paris (3h travel time, 7 trains/day), Lyon (1h30 travel time, 28 trains/day) and Brussels (5h travel time), international connections to Geneva (120km) and Milano.
